An Argument Against a Registry Law.

Mr. Mather, from the select committee of the Senate, to which was referred the bill introduced by Mr. Johnson, entitled "An act to preserve the purity of elections," has submitted the following report:

Free and universal suffrage has been adopted by the people of this State, and of most of the States of the Union, as a principle forming the very basis of their institutions. Every proposition, therefore, which seeks to emorrassits exercise, should be received with peakersy, and should not obtain legislative sinction without the most rigid scrutiny. In this State we have been careful in generally this right of suffrage by a constitutional provision, which declares that every male citizen" possessing certain qualifications of age and residence, "shall be entitled to vote."

If the "Registry bill," referred to this committee, violates the constitutional guaranty and in wader the portugal of the proposition of the received with peakers of the first of suffrage by a constitutional provision, which declares that they were in the city of the works, which is adoption to this was repealed at the very mage at the very name and of most of the legislature. Govern a Sward's friends in the city of New Yak, in opposition to his own indications of Govern a Sward's views, but can be received with peakers that the very male citizen" possessing certain qualifications of age and residence, "shall be entitled to vote."

If the "Registry bill," referred to this committee, violates the constitutional guaranty and in wader the proposition to the second views. Mr. Seward less sound now than they were in 1841? Believing that such is its character, the undersigned feels constrained to differ from the majority of the committee, and without attempting to amend a bill so radically wrong, to recommend to the Senate that it be rejected.

The constitution gives to the Legisl tree no power to encet a law requiring a registration of the elector's none as a condition of his voring.

power to enect a law requiring a registration of the elector's mone as a condition of his voting. This would be imposing a qualification which the constitution has not prescribed. It would be saying to the elector, that, in order to vote, he must not only have the qualifications of age and residence required by the constitution, but, in addition, must have had his name extered on the registry. When he presents himself at the pulls, if he can meet the test of suffrage which the constitution has established, his vote cannot be refused because he has not complied with some other test which the legislature has supersome other test which the legislature has soper- conveniences, and taxing their time in complying

The right to require a pre-registration of the names of votors as a condition of the exercise of the right of sufrige, cannot be detented, as is sometimes claimed, unle the claims of the constitution which provides that blaws shall be undefor ascertaining by proper pends, the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrige. [Here follows the veto message of Governor Clork]

The purpose of the advocates of a Registry law, is to prevent illegal voting. But would such a law accomplish that purpose? Where there is no intention to defroul, a registry is not needed. Where such an intention exists, a registry, ustead of deteating the common attention and the fraud, may be made the convenient instrument of clocking and consummating in. Of course, conspirators against the elective tranchise would, as a first step, seek to make their correct associates registry officers, and having done this, it would not be dillicult, by the entry of feutitous names, to which fictitious voters should answer, or by other ingenious and wicken devices, to commit even greater livods than could be perpetrated in the absence of such convexient medinery. It is well known that some of the most flagant election frands committed materials and longer the entry of the contract, have been accomplished with a Registry law in I lioperation, and by its aid.
